Governor's Safety Conference at Dena'ina Center March 4-6

JUNEAU, Alaska—The annual Governor's Safety & Health Conference will be March 4-6 at the Dena'ina Civic and Convention Center in Anchorage. The conference, "Choosing to Make a Difference," is open to employers, employees, safety and health professionals and the general public.

Speakers include:

- Emmy Award winner and international best-selling author Mark Scharenbroich, who will focus on employee engagement to improve productivity, develop higher levels of customer engagement, increase retention and improve profitability.
- Scott Ketcham, area director of the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration, who will review the agency's regulatory agenda.
- John Madden, director of the Alaska Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Management, who will focus on Emergency Preparedness in Alaska.

Sponsored by the Alaska Safety Advisory Council, the conference focuses on emerging safety and health issues, and advanced safety needs that are unique to the state. Training and networking opportunities illustrate a strong commitment and partnership among industry, government and labor organizations.

Conference coordinators anticipate more than 350 attendees representing oil and gas, construction, health care, tourism, recreation, state and local government, Alaska Native corporations, aviation, mining, timber and fishing.

To securely register for the conference or for more information, go online at 2014gshc.com.
